

The Lawyer awards 2018

May 2018

Collas Crill has been shortlisted for 'Offshore Law Firm of the Year' as part of The Lawyer Awards 2018.

Now in their 24th year the annual awards, organised by the publication, champion excellence across private practice, the public sector, commerce and industry, bringing together more than 1300 private practice lawyers and senior corporate counsel.

Entries are selected by a judging panel that comprises prominent figures from the legal profession ranging from general counsel in public companies to senior private practice lawyers and silks.

The firm also recently moved up in The Lawyer's annual rankings of the top offshore firms, noted for its 'remarkable growth story... with the largest headcount increase of any of the top 30'.

Jason Romer, Group Managing Partner, said: "We have seen a huge amount of growth for our firm in the last few years in order to support the needs of our clients.

"Our shortlisting for the awards and our position in the top 10 is a testament to the high value and interesting work that we're seeing and the development we offer our people within our global firm."
